Mount Holyoke College presents: 'Hoaxes, memes & bots: Learning how to navigate our polluted information streams'

SOUTH HADLEY - On Tuesday, Dec. 5, from 4:15-5:30 p.m. in Williston Library Reading Room, Mount Holyoke College presents: 'Hoaxes, memes & bots: Learning how to navigate our polluted information streams' with Claire Wardle.

LITS' speaker series on information and technology issues affecting society at large continues this month with a lecture by Wardle, one of the world's experts on user-generated content and Director of First Draft, a non-profit dedicated to finding solutions to the challenges associated with trust and truth in the digital age.

This lecture will explain why we have to stop using the term 'fake news', and will include practical tips to help you identify the hoaxes, misattributed, and manipulated content that surfaces online.
